More Help, More Hope, More Humanity...
Dear Friend of St. Anthony’s,

Our programs provide essential services to people who are poor. We both help people move out of poverty and care for those who face too many obstacles to become completely independent.

Our programs also connect people with each other. That may even be one of the reasons you support St. Anthony’s. We bring many kinds of people together from different social spheres. That human connection is as important to us as the services that come with it.

Why?

Because a healthy society relies on a shared sense of connection. People who live in poverty can be very isolated. They need to feel connected. They need food, clothing, and other basic support, yes, but they also need a community where they are understood and cared for. Those who serve as St. Anthony’s volunteers, donors, guests, and staff embrace this opportunity to connect with others. We all gain something by coming together and meeting others where they are.

Because our city is threatened by growing economic inequality and a declining sense of community. Without ongoing efforts to connect with our community and to care for those living in poverty, we will become a city further divided into “haves” and “have nots.” San Francisco deserves better. At St. Anthony’s, we strive to break down barriers that keep people divided so that we can create a more equal society and bring out the best in our city.

Because we all have a need. Whether we’re economically poor, spiritually poor, lonely, homesick, or in need of hope in tough times, all of us have needs. San Francisco must have a home where we all can find what we need, be it material support or simply the warmth of human connection.

Opening the new St. Anthony’s Dining Room last fall was an extraordinary moment in the history of this organization. It was an important moment for our city. With this larger, more efficient building, we can serve more people coming to us for help and meet more of the needs of San Franciscans who live in poverty. But the new building is also a statement, a declaration that San Francisco is for everyone, that there is a place here for people who are poor. At St. Anthony’s, the way our services connect people is just as important as the number of people served.

We hope this report makes you feel more connected with the people you are helping when you help St. Anthony’s. We are so glad that you are part of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Parish

About St. Anthony’s

St. Anthony’s provides essential support to San Franciscans living in poverty. We believe that people who are poor have a rightful place in our society. Every day, with dignity and respect, we offer thousands of individuals and families the basics we all need to feel human: a hot meal, fresh clothing, a friendly smile.

■ 53% of the families who benefit from the Free Clothing Program are single parents.

■ 47% of the people who bridge the nutrition gap through St. Anthony’s supplementary food pantry are seniors.

■ 46% of the people who avoided homelessness with rental assistance from St. Anthony’s have physical disabilities and live alone.

■ 70% of St. Anthony’s Job Training graduates from the Fr. Alfred Center secured a long-term job by the end of the program.

2014 Service Highlights

We opened the doors to the new St. Anthony’s Dining Room at 121 Golden Gate Avenue on October 4th—the feast of St. Francis—and 64 years to the day after Franciscan Fr. Alfred Boeddeker served the first meal at St. Anthony’s.

Senator Diane Feinstein served the 40 millionth meal at St. Anthony’s Dining Room in February. She also served St. Anthony’s 13 millionth meal in 1979 when she was mayor of San Francisco.

With mid-Market tech partner Zendesk, the Tenderloin Technology Lab launched Link-SF, San Francisco’s first-ever mobile-optimized website designed to help low-income residents connect with critical and life-saving resources nearby, using their cell phones. Zendesk also supports us with monthly employee volunteers and a quarterly donation.

We re-envisioned and revamped our job training program for residents of the Fr. Alfred Center, our certified, year-long program for drug and alcohol recovery. The new program culminates in “Food Handler” certification from the American National Standards institute for the state of California, a requirement for restaurant workers.

The Fr. Alfred Center started a partnership with Five Keys Charter School to teach classes on site to help residents get their GED. 30% of the people who enroll in the Fr. Alfred Center do not have a high school diploma.

St. Anthony’s Advocacy Program, working with policy makers and food security groups across the state, helped lift a lifelong ban from CalFresh (food stamps) and CalWORKS for people with drug convictions.

“Every day I see your people working tirelessly with the poor and disadvantaged. It’s a reminder of everything good this city has stood for.”
